From the CEO

This February, I was invited to deliver the keynote at the Pennsylvania Association of Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) Conference. As I prepared to go up the stage, I was unexpectedly overcome with emotion – seeing 300 farmers, the women and men who work hard to grow our food. I have worked at a small farm, and if you have done so or even have grown an edible garden in your yard, you KNOW the extraordinarily hard work required. And as I prepared to say the words, “40% of food goes to waste,” I could only think I am really saying to them “half of all your labor, we will throw in the garbage.”

I have so much love and respect for our farmers. Throwing away perfectly good food devalues our farmers and all the resources that go into producing food.

I feel the same on the other end, when I have the privilege of visiting one of our nonprofit partners or reading letters and emails from people whom we have delivered food to. They begin with “I am homebound...” “I have three kids and no car...” “I did not know how I was going to make it til the end of the month...” “We make too much to qualify for benefits but we cannot make ends meet.” And they end with, “this made a big difference.”

Throwing away perfectly good food is Food Injustice.

And we must look at this problem, this moral disconnect, with absolutely the same unrelenting bias for success as if our bottom-line depended on it. And what is that “bottom-line” as a nonprofit? Outcomes. Not outputs. For those of us who work to impact hunger. Not the “pounds of food distributed” – not even when we take a multiplier and translate it to “meals” – that’s the same thing. Those are necessary metrics but not a measure of effectiveness. To do that, we must go back to the people we are aiming to serve. At 412 Food Rescue, we began with the end in mind – Measurable impact on food insecurity. Emphasis on Measurable. Because it takes courage to do so. Last year, we started that work with University of Pittsburgh’s Dr. Catherine Greeno – to employ the standard of measure for food insecurity, the USDA survey, to measure our own work.

We owe it to the those we serve. Because this bias for measurement pushes us to innovate and iterate. It pushes us to always question status quo – even ones we create. It pushes us to put full focus on people. Hence, the programs we launch are human-centered, which truly is jargon du jour for “based on real life.”

As we enter our fifth year at 412 Food Rescue, we are transitioning from what in the Cynefin Framework is a “Complex” organization to a “Complicated” one. We are now creating blueprints, best practices and putting performance measures in place so that we can scale and replicate our model. Replicate not only in a macro sense – other cities – but also in a micro-sense: to other neighborhoods, to other housing sites, to other counties.

But through all this change, one thing remains constant – the fact that our model is based on an unwavering belief in people. And our volunteers deliver (pun intended!) Our “missed rescues” continue to only be 1-3% (in contrast, UberEats’ cancelation rate “hovers at below 5%.”)*

412 Food Rescue’s foundation is fully built around this belief—one of the things we were told was “impossible.” The premise that people will step up. That people will take action. One day at a time. 30 minutes at a time. Over and over again. Small acts, building toward a movement that will solve a problem that we have been trying to solve. Proving that change is only possible if all of us participate, if all of us take responsibility, if all of us let the good in our hearts prevail.

A Primer on Food Surplus, Food Insecurity and Environmental Sustainability

40% of food goes to waste.

Food is the #1 material in landfills.

The EPA estimates that almost 25% of landfilled materials is wasted food. When food is lost or wasted, all of the resources that have been used to produce it – water, land, energy – are also wasted, as are the calories and nutrients it contains.

THIS EQUALS OVER

1.7 TRILLION APPLES

AND

1 BILLION BAGS OF POTATOES

Consider this: if all of our country's wasted food was grown in one place, this mega-farm would cover roughly 80 million acres, over three-quarters of the state of California.

Growing the food on this wasteful farm would consume all the water used in California, Texas, and Ohio combined. The farm would harvest enough food to fill a 40-ton tractor-trailer every 20 seconds. Many of those trailers would travel thousands of miles, distributing food to be kept cold in refrigerators and grocery stores for weeks.

But instead of being purchased, prepared, and eaten, this perfectly good food is loaded onto another line of trucks and hauled to a landfill, where it emits a harmful stream of greenhouse gases as it decomposes.

A Primer: The Problem

2011

Jonathan Bloom wrote "American Wasteland: How America Throws Away Nearly Half of Its Food (and What We Can Do About It)," catalyzing awareness for the food we waste.

2012

National Resources Defense Council released the landmark report "Wasted: How America is Losing Up to 40% of its Food from Farm to Fork to Landfill." It is the most downloaded report in NRDC history.

Tristram Stuart gave a TEDSalon Talk in London, "The Global Food Waste Scandal." It has been viewed more than 1.5 million times.

2018

Paul Hawken wrote the New York Times bestseller "Drawdown: The Most Comprehensive Plan Ever Proposed to Reverse Global Warming." Of the 100 most substantive solutions to reverse global warming, reducing food waste has the third largest impact on the environment.

We waste

We need to act.

In 2012, The European Parliament passed a resolution to cut food waste in half in the European Union by 2025.

The United Nations agreed on the need to halve per capita food waste in the consumer and retail sectors, and the need to reduce food loss along production and supply chains by 2030, as part of the Global Sustainable Development Goals.

In 2015, the Food Recovery Act was introduced to Congress, the first food waste bill in the United States. It was followed by the Food Date Labeling Act and the Food Waste Transparency Act. That same year, the U.S. government declared a similar national 50% food waste reduction goal by 2030.

We have a long way to go.

The EPA prioritizes the strategies for food recovery. The top levels of the hierarchy shown here are the best ways to prevent and divert wasted food, because they create the most benefits for the environment, society, and the economy.

97%
of food waste still ends up in landfills.

We believe good food belongs to people, not landfills.

412 Food Rescue was founded to address the disconnect between food waste, food insecurity, and environmental sustainability. The fact that we waste 40% of our food is an extraordinary opportunity we cannot ignore.

Our Mission

412 Food Rescue's mission is to prevent perfectly good food from entering the waste stream and to redirect it to nonprofits that serve those who are food insecure.

We believe good food belongs to people, not landfills.

We relentlessly innovate to tackle the logistics challenge of retail food recovery.

Food waste in the retail sector is a problem.

Traditional logistics models do not work for food recovery at the retail level.

Food surplus at the retail sector is difficult to recover for many reasons. Food retail is a highly distributed network. Food surplus in wholesale and retail can be unpredictable with relatively small quantities of food at each location.

Food at retail sites is approaching the end of its useful life – produce is ripe or approaching its expiration date. It needs to be used right away and will not survive the time lag of a truck-warehouse distribution model.

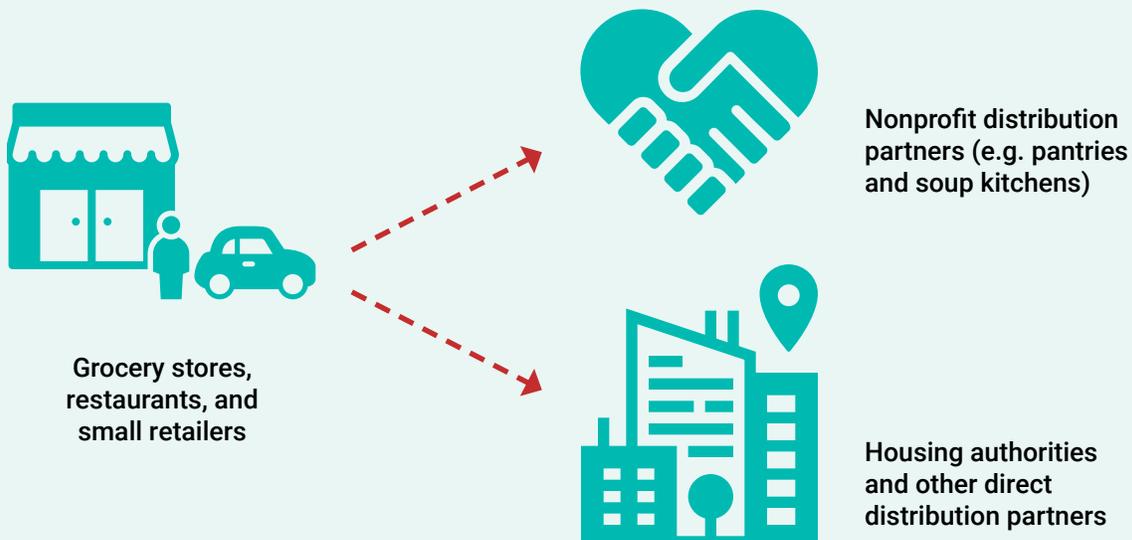

While it is smaller in quantity at each individual location, food surplus at retail sites, when aggregated, accounts for almost half of all food that is wasted.

Traditional logistics models are not appropriate for:

- ⊗ Smaller quantities of food
- ⊗ Unpredictable frequency
- ⊗ Food that needs to be consumed right away

412 Food Rescue Model: Point to Point

Why we need TO INNOVATE to serve.

“ Urban logistics have confounded experts and optimists for decades. Despite the technical revolution that is transforming logistics at distribution centers and shipping routes, it has barely touched last-mile delivery in the world’s metropolises.”

– QUARTZ, SEPTEMBER 2017

“ For those who are food insecure, many barriers to food access exist—including transportation and time.”

– HEALTH EQUITY, JANUARY 2017

Why We Need to Innovate to Serve People

Bridging the last mile: the new frontier in food access.

412 Food Rescue is focused on revolutionizing the last mile of the logistics chain. We get food to people who need it most – where they already are. Transport innovation is the first step. Then we must look at food distribution with an equally innovative lens.

To distribute surplus food, we partner with more than 542 nonprofits in the Greater Pittsburgh region. With food pantries and soup kitchens but also beyond traditional food-access networks. To bring food access closer to those who need it.

nonprofit partners in the Greater Pittsburgh region

Poverty. Food deserts. Transit deserts.

We discuss food deserts and food access. But the impact of poor transit access and transit deserts on food access is just as important.

In the U.S.,

of those in poverty do not have access to cars.

In Allegheny County,

14%

of households do not have access to cars.

In Pittsburgh

of households without access to vehicles are near high frequency transit with full day service.

of households making $25,000 or less are near high-frequency transit with full day service.

of renter households in Allegheny County do not have cars, consistent across all counties in Southwestern Pennsylvania.

“ Some food pantries report that more than half of their clients come less than three times a year—which leaves a huge gap, because households that experience food insecurity experience it for long periods of time.”

— PITTSBURGH QUARTERLY, FALL 2016

“ Food insecure households are more than three times as likely to walk, bike, or take transit to their primary food retailer.”

— STATE SMART TRANSPORTATION
INITIATIVE, 2015

Why We Need to Innovate to Serve People

“ [People] have less access to fresh fruits and vegetables. . . . Because there’s such an explicit link between commute times and upward mobility, there’s a whole range of impacts to family and community health, poverty and wage growth, and whether or not people keep their jobs.”

— Laura Wiens, Director, Pittsburghers for Public Transit as quoted in Public Source, 2018

412 Food Rescue bridges the gap by bringing food to where people are.

412 Food Rescue believes that everyone has a right to healthy food. Our model of recovery and redistribution not only gives access to healthy food, it allows us to bring food to where people are—overcoming two other barriers to food access: transportation and time. Those who are in poverty have limited mobility and this impacts all aspects of their lives, including getting to places where they can access food.

We partner with housing authorities, subsidized daycare centers, senior centers, after-school programs, family and community centers — services that are already accessed everyday.

“ ...the requirements of many social service organizations do not align with the realities of single parenthood.”

— Pittsburgh Foundation, “A Qualitative Study of Single Mothers in Allegheny County” 2019

Transport innovation to recover food is just the first step. To truly reach people, we must look at food distribution with an equally innovative lens.

Food Within Reach

FOOD DISTRIBUTION INNOVATION: CO-LOCATION AND THIRD SPACES

412 Food Rescue has created a highly resilient food surplus transport and distribution network. At scale, it has potential to be one of the most impactful innovations in hunger intervention.

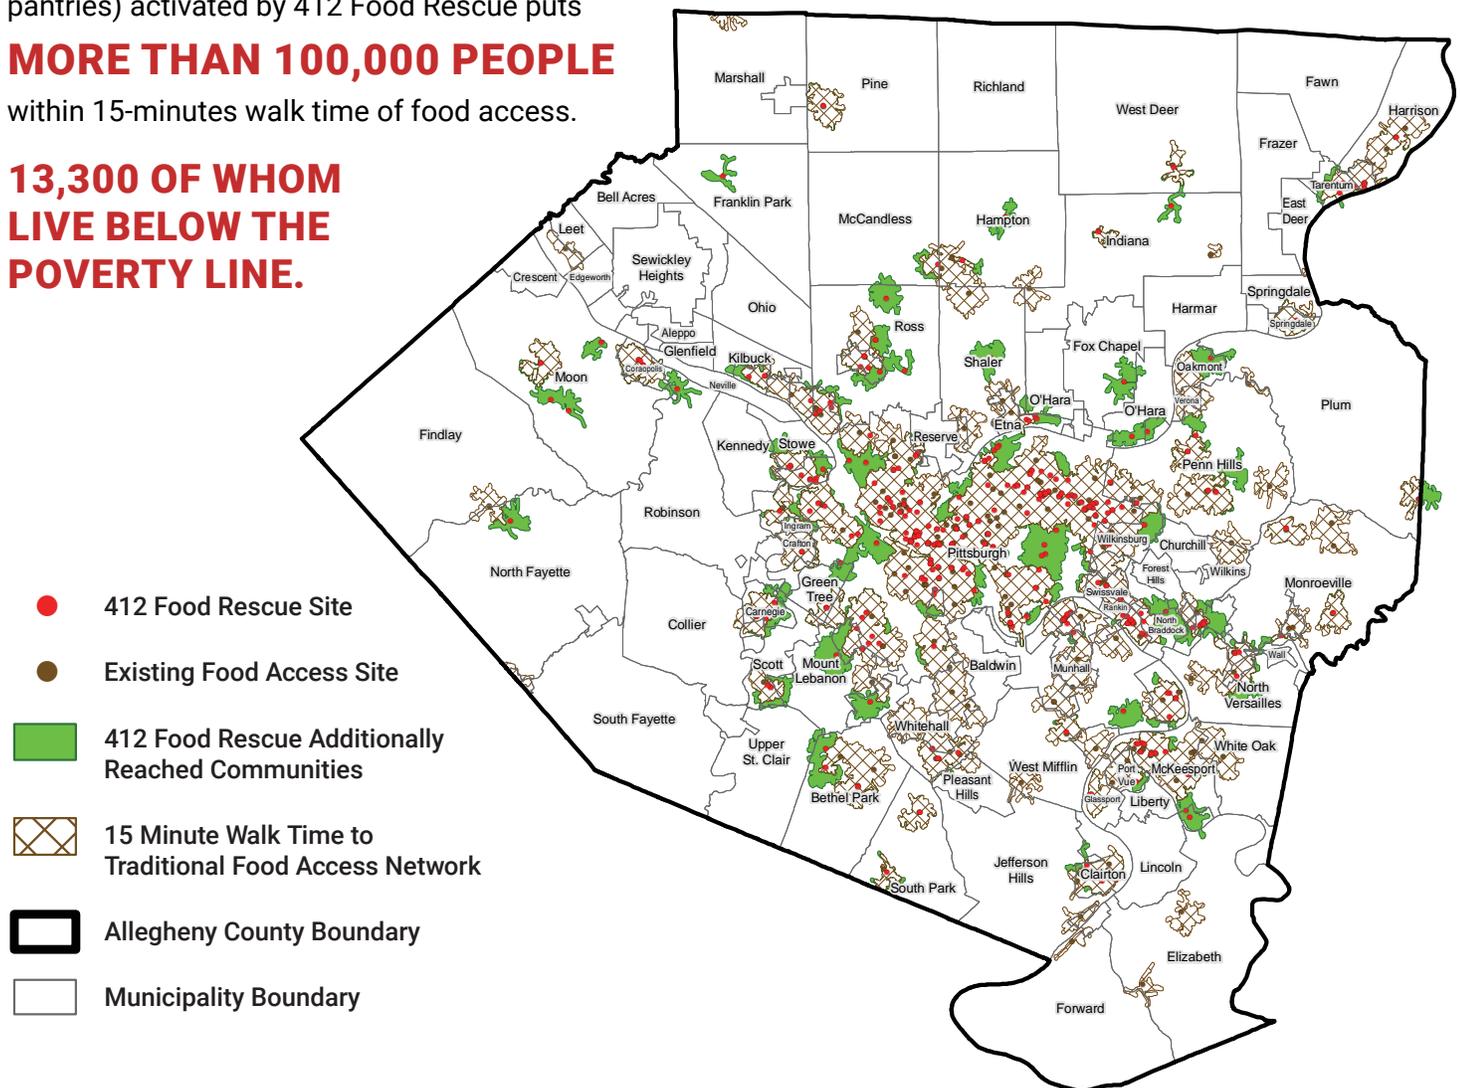

people within 15-minute walk time of food access.

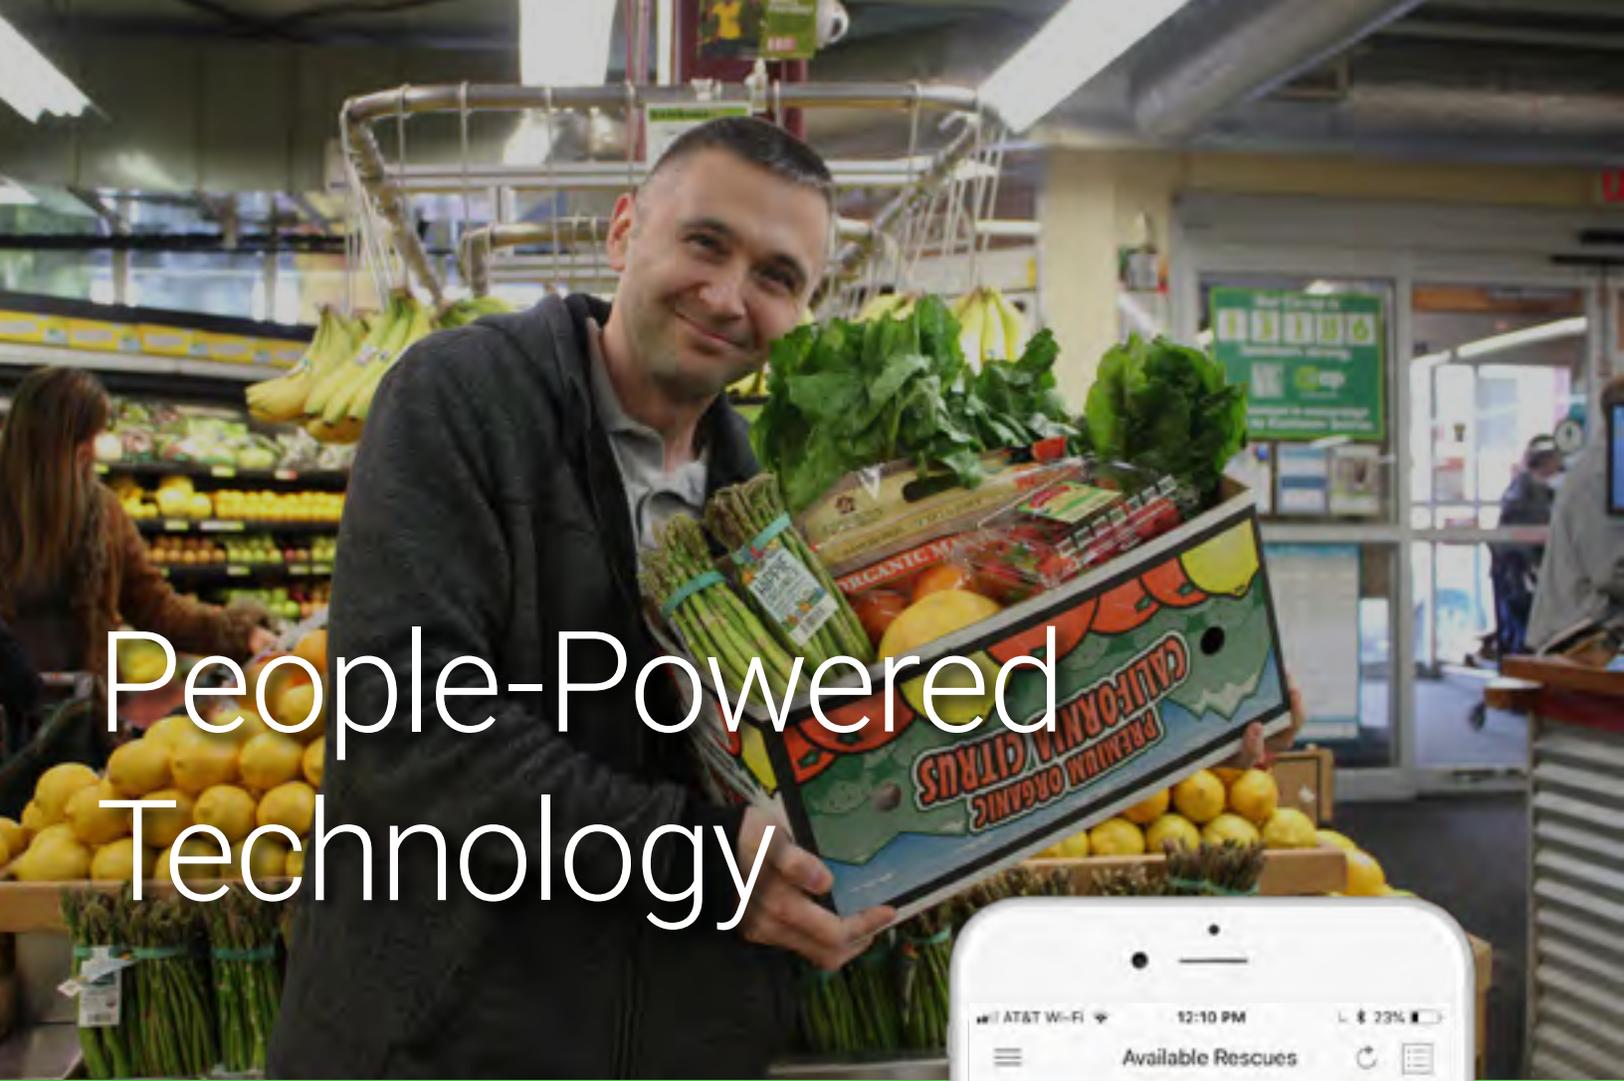

New food access points (beyond existing pantries) activated by 412 Food Rescue puts within 15-minutes walk time of food access.

MORE THAN 100,000 PEOPLE

13,300 OF WHOM LIVE BELOW THE POVERTY LINE.

People-Powered Technology

412 Food Rescue's model rests on two key factors: a fully invested community and the utilization of technology to facilitate efficiency and scale.

In November 2016, we launched our app "Food Rescue Hero." Since then, it has been downloaded by over 11,000 individuals.

Over 2,000 individuals have completed food rescues. The Pittsburgh region has the largest food transport network in a single urban region. This network grows everyday.

Food Rescue changes the way we volunteer and participate in civic action.

1 in 4 Americans volunteers and according to Stanford University, the top reasons that people do not volunteer is that they feel that they “don’t have enough time and volunteer schedules are too inflexible”, “jobs are not meaningful or purposeful” and “no one asked me to.”

Food Rescue Hero responds to these needs.

Thousands of opportunities to rescue food are available every year, every day of the week, at different times of day. Rescues can take under an hour door to door. Push notifications raise awareness for the need everyday.

Each opportunity is rewarding – volunteers see where the food is going – we have no warehouses! The experience of impact is direct and immediate. Volunteers with weekly routes become part of the nonprofit community to which they deliver. Volunteers visit neighborhoods which they may otherwise not have the opportunity to visit in their daily lives.

Driving all over the region, volunteers visit and get to know communities, creating relationships that may not have happened otherwise.

We have a highly resilient and reliable food transport network.

Our Impact: Measurably Impacting Hunger

We conducted a series of studies to assess the impact of the food we distribute.

We worked with Dr. Catherine Greeno from the University of Pittsburgh's School of Social Work to conduct a series of surveys. Our objective was to assess the impact of surplus food distribution on food insecurity.

From December 2017 to February 2018 we completed surveys with more than 310 recipients from over 20 sites we serve. We measured satisfaction and the impact of food rescue on food insecurity — changes that recipients perceived after receiving distribution of surplus food.

Findings confirmed that people are satisfied with the food, and use all or almost all of it. Recipients report that food distributions help in alleviating food insecurity factors.

We will continue to conduct this survey as an ongoing evaluation of impact. The survey is a tool that can be used for continued quality assurance, and could also be adopted by other food rescue organizations.

The Longest Shutdown

FOOD RESCUE RAPID RESPONSE TO COMMUNITY CRISIS

The longest government shutdown in history (December 22, 2019 – January 25, 2019) impacted millions of individuals and families in the nation. In Pennsylvania alone, there are approximately 60,000 federal employees, and in Allegheny County there are more than 148,000 individuals and families utilizing the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).

This man-made emergency impacted Pennsylvania and its residents in multiple ways, from federal employees without pay for 38 days to SNAP participants not receiving benefits in the entire month of February. The financial strain on families was real; for those without reserve finances or sufficient income to support themselves and their families, this was a very challenging time.

412 Food Rescue immediately recognized the increased need for supplemental food – for the individuals and families impacted by the shutdown, as well as for organizations distributing food to meet the growing need. Thousands of people would be navigating the social service sector for the first time. And with most food pantries able to distribute food to people only once a month, there would be a strain to the existing safety net.

Our Philosophy: No Barriers to Access

It is clear to us at 412 Food Rescue that the most effective way to support both furloughed employees and SNAP recipients is to provide easy, no-questions-asked food access in dispersed neighborhoods in Pittsburgh. This was not a time for “qualification barriers” – it never is.

We identified neighborhoods and asked our community partners – even those not typically open to the general public – to become emergency food distribution centers. These sites were identified for their central location and easy access. We looked to eliminate barriers for persons without reliable transportation and accommodate individuals with time constraints (i.e. work, picking up children from school, travel time, etc.). Along with this, consistency in location also came to the forefront; since so many would be using these resources for the first time, knowing where to go would alleviate some of the stress and confusion associated with utilizing social services.

We asked that each organization not require any proof of employment, income, or need. The distributions would be open to the public. In responding to this emergency situation, having little to no barriers to access food was in consideration of the stress and circumstances of each person.

A Planned, Collaborative Effort

Concurrently with the direct outreach to organizations to host the distributions, we communicated with several of our large donor partners to ask for any additional support each business was able to offer. Three of our large distributors – Gordon Foods, Sysco, and World Vision – committed to providing additional donations throughout the shutdown.

We activated 14 nonprofit sites that would alternate weeks for their distributions for two reasons; to cover as many geographical areas as possible within our capacity, and to decrease the burden on the nonprofit organizations hosting additional distributions.

Collective Impact

More than 21,800 pounds of food (equivalent to 18,168 meals) were distributed at these nonprofit pop-up sites during the coordinated efforts to respond to the longest Federal Government Shutdown in history.

The drivers, donors, and nonprofit partners endured frigid temperatures, damaging wind storms, and mechanical breakdowns without wavering. This collaborative response resulted in a collective impact that captures the spirit of food rescue.

Strategic Projects

We are committed to introducing innovative solutions to scale food recovery in urban regions.

412 Food Rescue's portfolio of food recovery initiatives ranges from building technology and logistics infrastructure to creating new markets for products that redirect good food from feeding landfills to feeding people.

412 Food Rescue works on food waste across the supply chain.

UglyCSA

We create new markets for previously unsellable produce – benefiting farmers and preserving the resources that went into food production.

Piloted in 2016, in partnership with Penn’s Corner Farm Alliance, our UglyCSA has grown to be the fifth largest CSA program in the region.

UGLYCSA FAST FACTS

- The UglyCSA program has GROWN EVERY YEAR as our supporters look for other ways to end food waste and support local farms.
- The UglyCSA COSTS LESS than a typical CSA and is SNAP eligible.
- Our UglyCSA subscriber base has grown OVER 430% from 2016 to 2018

Strategic Projects: Food Education

We believe that food education is crucial to our mission of HEALTHY FOOD FOR ALL.

We are the regional partner for the award-winning Share Our Strength® Cooking Matters® curriculum—a nationally recognized food education initiative that spans six weeks and is designed to “help families shop for and cook healthy meals on a budget.”

We deliver these programs to our nonprofit partners and equip them to teach the classes themselves—creating a source of food education for everyone.

Our goal is to open 100 Cooking Schools in the region, enabling our nonprofit partners to deliver the program to the individuals and families they serve.

FOOD EDUCATION FAST FACTS

- In 2018, we trained 16 NONPROFIT PARTNERS to deliver the Cooking Matters® curriculum.
- We have trained 147 VOLUNTEERS to become Cooking Matters® instructors, building capacity to deliver the program regionwide.
- Our Food Education program participation has GROWN BY OVER 790% from 2016 to 2018 with 603 graduates over three years.

Strategic Projects: Hidden Harvest

We work with our corporate partners to glean fruits and vegetables from both public and privately-owned trees, orchards, farms and gardens. We donate edible harvests to nonprofit partners and transform inedible harvests to products that stoke conversations about food waste.

Volunteers

Harvests

EAST END BREWING BEER

THREADBARE CIDER

In 2018, we launched product collaborations with long-time partners Threadbare Cider and East End Brewing.

Threadbare Cider produced the second batch of 412 City Cider and East End Brewing brewed the Rescueberry Shake – made from rescued berries and the follow-up to 2016’s popular LOAF beer – made from rescued bread.

Strategic Projects: Millvale Kitchen

In 2016, 412 Food Rescue won the UpPrize, a program of The Forbes Funds, Bridgeway Capital and the BNY Mellon Foundation of Southwestern PA.

This year, we will launch The Millvale Kitchen.

The Millvale Kitchen is housed in New Sun Rising's facility in Millvale – an old Moose Lodge converted to a food and energy hub. The building is also home to a coworking space and Sprezzatura, a Mediterranean cafe and catering company.

Designed by ATK Design Studios and Project RE, The Millvale Kitchen is the natural extension of 412 Food Rescue's mission to harness food surplus to impact hunger and environmental sustainability.

The facility will provide opportunity for rapid stabilization of surplus food and will create healthy, SNAP-eligible meals that will be distributed via our partners. We will also create value-added products that generate revenue to fund our programs.

The Millvale Kitchen will also be the home of our food education program and training center for Cooking Matters®.

As always, true to our ethos of community engagement, The Millvale Kitchen will serve as a hub to engage volunteers and offer pay-what-you-can community meals.

In 2018, we were honored to be recognized with two major awards, setting “first” records.

The Pittsburgh Technology Council's Tech50 awarded us with

STARTUP OF THE YEAR

— the first nonprofit to receive the recognition.

Pittsburgh City Paper also recognized our collective community as paying tribute to the fact that this is a tech-powered movement of citizens taking action.

Food Donors

“ It is comforting to know that by donating food to 412 Food Rescue, our department helps to control waste and provide food to food insecure populations through an agency that practices the same safety and sanitation procedures that our department practices. . . . This is very important and has positively impacted our department. Food insecurity is one of the top issues facing our communities. A volunteer with 412 Food Rescue can take pride in knowing that their work provides one of the greatest services that can be provided to mankind.”

– CURTISTINE WALKER, DIRECTOR OF FOOD SERVICE FOR THE PITTSBURGH PUBLIC SCHOOLS

“ While nearly 1 in 5 American struggle to put food on the table, 412 Food Rescue has literally stepped up to the plate. Their model of eliminating waste while improving sustainability ensures that this number decreases in our region.”

“ Every donation delivery is like Christmas Morning for the residents! Residents greatly appreciate that the donations are delivered right to their building or community. Transportation is a major obstacle for a number of our residents. The residents in our buildings have taken on the challenge of helping distribute donated food to their fellow residents. And we can not forget that residents are able to stretch their fixed monthly income farther because of the donations.”

– LYNN WACKENHUTH, HOPE IN LIFE PROGRAM MANAGER, WESTMORELAND COUNTY HOUSING AUTHORITY

“ HACP’s relatively recent collaboration with 412 Food Rescue has managed to effectively end hunger in our public housing communities. Historically, our communities have averaged five to seven emergency referrals for families without food each month. Over the course of the past six months, however, HACP has received zero referrals for families without food. We attribute this dramatic success to the ongoing efforts of 412 Food Rescue.”

– MICHELLE SANDIDGE, CHIEF COMMUNITY AFFAIRS OFFICER, HOUSING AUTHORITY OF THE CITY OF PITTSBURGH

“ 412 Food Rescue has made a very positive impact on our organization. Our shelter temporarily houses domestic violence victims as well as homeless individuals. We receive a weekly donation from the local Giant Eagle and the monthly food truck. Due to these donations we have been able to cut our monthly food costs tremendously. While we access various grants and the Greater Pittsburgh Community Food bank, 412 Food Rescue has really stepped in to supplement many items that we were purchasing each monthly. 412 Food Rescue has brought so much fresh produce to our shelter that we otherwise would not always have access to. It's incredible to see the direct impact the food is making while also knowing how much food waste is being cut back.”

Food Rescue Heroes

“ The mission of 412 Food Rescue was a perfect match with my beliefs. Having worked with families from a variety of socioeconomic backgrounds, I knew access to nutritional food was always a challenge and often not prioritized when other bills needed to be paid.

During one of my regular rescues, there are often several residents who usually help to unload my car. Initially, they were shy and barely responded to my greeting. Now, when I visit with the donation, there is plenty of chatter and smiles from most of them. 412 Food Rescue presents opportunities to engage with a variety of folks who feel forgotten, creating connections.”

— JOANN AURAND

“ I knew [412 Food Rescue] was for me after [reading an article] because I've had this belief for as long as I can remember that we waste so much food! Years ago when I volunteered with organizations feeding the homeless for the holidays, I watched them throw away perfectly good; whole turkeys and pans of prepared foods that hadn't been opened. [It makes] no sense to me! I secretly got new bags and packed food for several families and met them outside the facility when it was over and gave them food. I tell people that there's no better way to give back than when you lend a helping hand to someone else. Picking up food and seeing the reaction of the people or businesses receiving it is priceless! God is good.”

— GIA WESLEY

When I think of my rescues, there are two really great moments I will always think of. There was a one time rescue I did dropping off produce to an after school program. Some of the kids were there and very excited about helping to bring in the boxes. It was very impactful to see how delivering a few boxes of produce, that would have otherwise gone to waste, made a huge impact in these kids daily lives.

The second moment was during my old weekly rescue. I would pickup hot meals made by a chef work training program and bring them to the men's and women's shelters downtown. I got to hear their stories and understand that this food was something they really looked forward to and appreciated. In the course of my week my rescue seemed pretty simple and small so it was great to have both of these experiences to understand the greater impact 412 Food Rescue and their volunteers make.

— KATRINA FINN

A Food Rescue is such a simple thing to do, but it makes such a difference for the people it benefits. And the amount of food that gets wasted is mind blowing — keeping that food out of landfills and getting it into the hands of people who can use it is truly rewarding! My favorite part is the personal interactions with the donors and recipients. Everyone is so grateful just to be a part of the process, it's really uplifting to see.

— AMEESH KAPOOR

There is nothing about the human condition more basic and fundamentally necessary as air, food, and water... We waste at least 40% of the food we have - that is abjectly shameful since we have thousands of people in our region who are food insecure . . . And once the call went out to the people, hundreds and thousands have stepped up to help get that food into needy hands. So when I heard about this good work, I decided I had to help. It just makes sense.

— ED CRIST
